1. The improvised airfield at Calau-Bronkow (N 52/A 35) was not occupied. Cattle grazed on the rough and sodded landing field. The field, bordered by the Luckaitz-Bronkow (N 52/A 25) road on the south and the road to Zwietow (N 52/A 36) on the west, is about 800x1,000 meters. There were no hangars and the buildings on the southern edge were destroyed. The railroad spur track was removed but debris still marked its former route.
2. About 15 laborers were dismantling the tank installation. Four fuel tanks, each about 6 meters long, 2½ meters in diameter, and formerly about 4 meters underground, were dug out.
3. Two biplanes repeatedly flew over the field but did not land. *
